1365. CHIMANBHAI MEHTA: Will the PRIME MINISTER be pleased to state:

(a) whether Government are aware that full utilisation of the Centre deputation reserve of Indian Administrative Service is not being made at present, if so, what action is being taken to rectify the situation;

(b) whether Government are aware that non-utilisation of Centre deputation reserve has created dissatisfaction amongst the State Governments, if so, whether Government are considering holding discussion with the Chief Ministers and Chief Secretaries to find out suitable solutions; and

(c) whether Government are aware that the placement policy being followed by Government in the case of Indian Administrative Service Officers has created dissatisfaction amongst the State Governments?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF PERSONNEL, PUBLIC GRIEVANCES AND PENSIONS (SHRI P. CHIDAMBARAM): (a) to (c) Each State Cadre of the Indian Administrative Service (IAS) has a Central Deputation Reserve (CDR) representing 40 per cent of the number of senior duty posts of that Cadre. Efforts are always made to ensure that the CDR of each State Cadre is fully utilized and adequate representation of each State Cadre at the different levels at the Centre is achieved. However, as each senior post at the Centre is filled with due regard to its job requirements and the qualifications/experience of all eligible officers available at the time the vacancy arises, it is not always possible to achieve representation of each Cadre to the desired level. However, a fair and balanced representation for all cadres is one of the objectives kept in mind while making postings.
